Glatthaar – Fertigkeller Ltd are industry leaders within the Building, Construction and Prefabrication Industries. Glatthaar was established in 1980 by Joachim Glatthaar, in Germany. Moving ahead to 2019, Glatthaar has seen an unprecedented growth throughout its nearly 40 years of production. With their headquarters still based in Germany, Glatthaar has expanded significantly since its foundation, with branches in Austria, Switzerland and England, the company produces and delivers sustainable prefabricated basements all across Europe.

Boasting services that provide dependable, durable features, Glatthaar construct their basements around environmental factors, water prevention and maintainability for their customers.

In terms of the benefits that Glatthaar provides their customers, they pride themselves on delivering expert bespoke solutions, tailored to the wants and needs of the customer's basement requirements. Another notable benefit that Glatthaar provides is their one-stop-shop approach to services. We spoke to Anthony Spinney on the vast services Glatthaar provides and he told us that, "from first enquires to the hand-over of the finished product, we manage every aspect of production. The main advantage of this procedure is our clients only deal with our team, needing no outside contractors; we produce, manufacture, transfer, engineer and install the product. Assisting customers throughout the whole service, from the initial design and fabrication, to the installation of the basement and after sales services, here at Glatthaar we handle everything. In short – we do it all!"

Achieving credible results within homes throughout Europe, Glatthaar also maintains the title of being the only basement provider in Great Britain that can provide an insurance backs warranty against water damage for self-builders to their customers. Anthony elaborated, "Glatthaar's basement system has been Type Approved and so is able, through our partner Build-Zone, to be insured against water damage. We are the only company in Great Britain that can offer this service and piece of mind in our product. Our customers can rest easy knowing that choosing Glatthaar has given them hassle free water damage prevention within their basement."

With constant development being at the heart of production at Glatthaar, the company is devoted to their customers and aim to maintain their brand to the highest standard. They offer a reliable service in terms of sustainability and cost-effective value offering fixed priced projects.
